

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
Northern District of California

PAUL E. ROSENFELD,

Plaintiff,

v.

JPMORGAN CHASE BANK, N.A., et al.,

Defendants.

No. C 09-6070 MEJ

ORDER RE DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS PLAINTIFF'S FIRST AMENDED COMPLAINT

(DKT. #10)

I. INTRODUCTION

Before the Court is Defendants JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. ("Chase"), California Reconveyance Company ("CRC"), and Bank of America, N.A.'s¹ ("BofA") (collectively "Defendants") motion to dismiss Plaintiff's First Amended Complaint. (Dkt. #10.) After consideration of the parties' papers, relevant legal authority, and good cause appearing, the Court ORDERS as follows.

II. BACKGROUND

In late July 2006, Plaintiff Paul E. Rosenfeld ("Plaintiff") obtained a mortgage loan in the amount of $987,000.00 ("first loan") in connection with the property located at 2811 Monte Cresta Drive, in Belmont, California ("the Subject Property"). (Defs.' Mot. 1:17-18, Dkt. #10; Pl.'s Opp'n 3:16-17, Dkt. #13.) The first loan was secured by a Deed of Trust ("first DOT") recorded on July 27, 2006 with the San Mateo County Recorder's Office as instrument number 2006-112029. (Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN"), Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) The first DOT of trust identifies Washington Mutual Bank ("WaMu") as the lender, CRC as the trustee, and Plaintiff as the borrower. Id.

¹BofA is the successor by merger to LaSalle Bank as trustee for WaMu Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates Series 2006-AR11 Trust and was erroneously sued as two entities: BofA and WaMu Mortgage Pass-Through Certificates Series 2006-AR11 Trust. (Defs.' Mot. 1:5-6, Dkt. #10.)

1 Attached to the first DOT is an Adjustable Rate Rider, signed by Plaintiff and identified on page two 2 of the first DOT, which provides that the yearly interest rate on unpaid may change monthly, 3 beginning September 2006. (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) Plaintiff also obtained a home equity line of 4 credit in connection to the Subject Property in the amount of $281,999.00, secured by a second Deed
5 of Trust (“second DOT”) recorded on July 27, 2006 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office 6 as instrument number 2006-112030. (RJN, Ex. 2, Dkt. #11.) The second DOT identifies WaMu as 7 the beneficiary and Plaintiff as the trustor. Id.

8 On September 25, 2008, the Office of Thrift Supervision closed WaMu and appointed the 9 FDIC as receiver. (Defs.’ Mot. 2:6-7, Dkt. #10.) On the same date, Chase entered into a Purchase 10 and Assumption Agreement (“Agreement”) with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation 11 (“FDIC”) acting in its corporate capacity as well as receiver for WaMu. Id. at 2:7-9; RJN, Ex. 5, 12 Dkt. #11. Under Section 2.5 of the Agreement, Chase did not assume liability for borrower claims 13 related to loans or commitments to lend made by WaMu. (RJN, Ex. 5, Dkt. #11.)

14 Plaintiff states that he began to experience severe financial problems in January 2009, 15 making it difficult to pay on the first DOT. (First Am. Compl. (“FAC”) ¶ 23, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff 16 states that he contacted Chase to seek a modification of his loan, and that Chase advised him to be 17 late on his payments to qualify for a modification. Id. Plaintiff states that he stopped making loan 18 payments in April 2009 and submitted loan modification paperwork. Id. Plaintiff claims that he 19 repeatedly phoned Chase, resubmitted his paperwork in July, and was finally told by “Charmeka” at 20 Chase on August 26, 2009, that all of Plaintiff’s documentation had been received and a 21 representative had been assigned to work on his modification. Id.

22 On August 19, 2009, the first DOT was assigned by Chase to BofA and was recorded on 23 August 20, 2009 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as instrument number 2009-112228.
24 (RJN, Ex. 3, Dkt. #11.) On August 20, 2009, CRC, as trustee of the first DOT, recorded a Notice of 25 Default (“NOD”) with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as instrument number 2009-112229.
26 (RJN, Ex. 4, Dkt. #11.) Plaintiff alleges that Chase did not contact him to discuss options to pay the 27 loan prior to issuing the NOD. Id. at ¶27.

On September 8, 2009, Plaintiff contacted “Alex” at Chase and told him he received the NOD. (FAC ¶ 25, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff states that Alex told him “not to worry” and requested additional documents, which Plaintiff provided. Id. Plaintiff contacted Chase again in October of 2009, only to be informed that he had to resubmit all of his information. Id. Plaintiff resubmitted his information and now alleges that Chase has failed to contact him or make any progress on his loan modification application. Id. In the meantime, Plaintiff had also filed for bankruptcy. Id.

On December 30, 2009, Plaintiff filed his initial Complaint in this matter, and subsequently filed his FAC on April 12, 2010 alleging twelve causes of action: Wrongful Foreclosure; Rescission and Restitution under 15 U.S.C. § 1635; Reformation under California Civil Code sections 3399 and 1670.5; violation of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, 12 U.S.C. § 2605 et seq.; Breach of Contract and Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing; Breach of Fiduciary Duty; Fraudulent Misrepresentation; Fraudulent Concealment; Civil Conspiracy to Defraud; violation of California Business and Professions Code section 17200, et seq.; Quiet Title to Real Property; and for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief. (Dkt. #8.)

On April 29, 2010, Defendants filed their motion to dismiss Plaintiff’s FAC. (Dkt. #10.) On May 20, 2010, Plaintiff filed his opposition (Dkt. #13), and on May 27, 2010, Defendants filed their reply (Dkt. #14). On June 10, 2010, the Court held a hearing on the matter, at which Plaintiff failed to appear.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure (“Rule”) 12(b)(6) provides that a defendant may move to dismiss a claim for “failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.” A motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6) “tests the legal sufficiency of a claim.” Navarro v. Block, 250 F.3d 729, 732 (9th Cir. 2001). In order to survive a motion to dismiss, a plaintiff must allege “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atlantic v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). In considering a motion to dismiss, a court must accept all of the plaintiff’s allegations as true. Id. at 550; Erickson v. Pardus, 551 U.S. 89, 93-94 (2007). The plaintiff’s complaint need not contain detailed factual allegations, but it must contain more than a “formulaic recitation of the elements of a 1 cause of action.” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. In reviewing a motion to dismiss, courts may also 2 consider documents attached to the complaint. Parks School of Business, Inc. v. Symington, 51 F.3d 3 1480, 1484 (9th Cir. 1995) (citation omitted). In addition, courts may consider a matter that is 4 properly the subject of judicial notice, such as matters of public record. Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 5 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir. 2001).

6 In determining whether to dismiss a complaint that alleges time-barred activity, it must 7 appear from the complaint that the plaintiff can prove no set of facts that would establish the 8 timeliness of a claim. Supermail Cargo, Inc. v. U.S., 68 F.3d 1204, 1207 (9th Cir. 1995). If the 9 court dismisses the complaint, it “should grant leave to amend even if no request to amend the 10 pleading was made, unless it determines that the pleading could not possibly be cured by the 11 allegation of other facts.” Lopez v. Smith, 203 F.3d 1122, 1127 (9th Cir. 2000).

12 V. APPLICATION TO THE CASE AT BAR

13 A. Defendants’ Request for Judicial Notice

14 As a preliminary matter, on April 29, 2010, Defendants filed a Request for Judicial Notice, 15 (Dkt. #11), asking the Court to take notice of the following: (1) a copy of the DOT for Plaintiff’s 16 property recorded on July 27, 2006 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as instrument 17 number 2006-112029; (2) a copy of the second DOT for Plaintiff’s property recorded on July 27, 18 2006 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as instrument number 2006-112030; (3) the 19 Assignment of DOT recorded on August 20, 2009 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as 20 instrument number 2009-112228; (4) a copy of the Notice of Default (“NOD”) recorded August 20, 21 2009 with the San Mateo County Recorder’s Office as instrument number 2009-112229; and (5) the 22 Purchase and Assumption Agreement entered into by Chase and the FDIC, acting as receiver of 23 WaMu. (RJN 1:28-2:13, Dkt. #11.)

24 Federal Rule of Evidence 201(b) provides the criteria for judicially noticed facts: “A 25 judicially noticed fact must be one not subject to reasonable dispute in that it is either (1) generally 26 known within the territorial jurisdiction of the trial court or (2) capable of accurate and ready 27 determination by resort to sources whose accuracy cannot reasonably be questioned.” As the documents in question are matters of public record, the Court GRANTS Defendants' request for judicial notice. See MGIC Indem. Corp. v. Weisman, 803 F.2d 500, 504 (9th Cir. 1986) (A court may take judicial notice of matters of public record outside the pleadings on a motion to dismiss.); W. Fed. Sav. v. Heflin, 797 F. Supp. 790, 792 (N.D. Cal. 1992) (taking judicial notice of documents in a county public record, including deeds of trust).
28

B. Whether Plaintiff's Claims are Properly Brought Against Defendant Chase

Defendants maintain that Plaintiff cannot state any claims against Chase, arguing that under Section 2.5 of the Agreement, Chase did not assume liability for borrower claims related to loans or commitments to lend made by WaMu. (Defs.' Mot. 2:5-6, Dkt. #10.) Defendants state that the FDIC, not Chase, is the proper party. Id. at 3:5-7. In response, Plaintiff claims that Chase is liable for claims against WaMu because under the Agreement, it agreed to assume all of WaMu's liabilities. (Pl.'s Opp'n 11:24-28, Dkt. #13.)

As stated above, on September 25, 2008, Chase acquired certain assets and liabilities of WaMu from the FDIC, which was acting as receiver for WaMu. (Defs.' Mot. 1:27-28, Dkt. #10; RJN, Ex. 5, Dkt. #11.) Pursuant to the Agreement entered into by Chase and the FDIC, Chase acquired WaMu's interest in WaMu's loans to Plaintiff. (Defs.' Mot 1:28-2:2, Dkt. #10.) The applicable sections of the Agreement can be found in Article II – Assumption of Liabilities. (RJN, Ex. 5, Dkt. #11.) Section 2.1, titled "Liabilities Assumed by Assuming Bank"², states: "Subject to Sections 2.5 and 4.8, the Assuming Bank expressly assumes at Book Value . . . and agrees to pay, perform, and discharge, all of the liabilities of the Failed Bank which are reflected on the Books and Record of the Failed Bank" Id. Section 2.5 is titled "Borrower Claims" and provides:

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Agreement, any liability associated with borrower claims for payment of or liability to any borrower for monetary relief, or that provide for any other form of relief to any borrower . . . related in any way to any loan or commitment to lend made by the Failed Bank prior to failure, or to any loan made by a third party in connection with a loan which is or was held by the Failed Bank, or otherwise arising in connection with the Failed Bank's lending or loan purchase activities are specifically not assumed by the Assuming Bank.

²Per the Agreement, Chase is referred to as the "Assuming Bank" and WaMu is referred to as the "Failed Bank." (RJN, Ex. 5, Dkt. #11.)

Although Plaintiff argues that the Agreement transfers WaMu's liabilities to Chase, this issue has already been presented and resolved in this district. In Hilton v. Washington Mutual Bank, C 09-1191 SI, the Honorable Susan Illston reviewed the same provisions in a similar lawsuit involving the transfer of WaMu assets to Chase, holding that Section 2.5 "expressly provides that [Chase] did not assume the potential liabilities of [WaMu] associated with claims of borrowers" (Order, 4:5-7, Dkt. #81.) Judge Illston thus found that the plaintiff could not maintain any claims against [Chase] arising out of the origination of the loans." Id. at fn. 5.

The Court finds that the same is true in this case - the FDIC is the appropriate party regarding "any liability associated with borrower claims for payment of or any liability to any borrower for monetary relief, or that provide for any other form of relief to any borrower." Yeomalakis v. FDIC, 562 F.3d 56, 60 (1st Cir. 2009). Thus the FDIC was and remains the appropriate party in interest. See 12 U.S.C. § 1821(d)(2)(A)(i); see also In re Community Bank of N. Virginia, 418 F.3d 277, 293 n.6 (3d Cir. 2005). Accordingly, Plaintiff has failed to state a claim against Defendant Chase and the Court GRANTS Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiff's claims against Chase.

C. Plaintiff's Claims

Defendants next move to dismiss Plaintiff's FAC in its entirety, arguing that each cause of action fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. (Defs.' Mot. 2:3-3:10, Dkt. #10.) In response, Plaintiff contends that he has sufficiently pled that relief "can be granted on almost every cause of action addressed" in Defendants' motion, and argues that the motion should be denied in its entirety. (Pl.'s Opp'n 3:3-6, Dkt. #13.) The Court shall address each claim in turn.

1. Wrongful Foreclosure

Plaintiff's first cause of action is for wrongful foreclosure. However, Plaintiff does not allege that a foreclosure has occurred; instead, he alleges that under California Civil Code sections 2923.5 and 2924, no named defendant has the lawful right to foreclose on the Subject Property. (FAC ¶¶ 32, 33, Dkt. #8.)

In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that Plaintiff's wrongful foreclosure claim fails

1 for one basic reason – there was no foreclosure sale of the Subject Property. (Defs.’ Mot. 4:14-15; 2 Dkt. #10.) A lender or foreclosure trustee may only be liable to the mortgagor or trustor for 3 wrongful foreclosure if the property was fraudulently or illegally sold under a power of sale 4 contained in a mortgage or deed of trust. Munger v. Munger, 11 Cal. App. 3d 1, 7 (1970). Here, 5 there is no dispute that a foreclosure sale did not take place. See RJN, Exhibits 1-4. Accordingly, 6 the Court finds that this cause of action is premature.

7 In their motion, Defendants also argue that, even had a foreclosure sale taken place, they 8 fully complied with California Civil Code section 2923.5 and 2924. (Defs.’ Mot. 4:25-5:22; Dkt.
 9 #10.) In response, Plaintiff contends that Defendants failed to comply with California Civil Code 10 section 2924 because CRC did not have the authority to record the NOD. (Pl.’s Opp’n 6:1-20, Dkt.
 11 #13.) As noted above, Plaintiff does not dispute that there has been no sale of the Subject Property.
 12 However, accepting the allegations in Plaintiff’s FAC as true, the Court shall address Plaintiff’s 13 statutory claims.

14 a. California Civil Code section 2923.5

15 Even if there had been a foreclosure, the Court finds that Defendants complied with their 16 obligations under the California Civil Code. California Civil Code section 2923.5(a)(1) provides 17 that “a mortgagee, trustee, beneficiary, or authorized agent may not file a notice of default pursuant 18 to Section 2924 until 30 days after initial contact is made as required by paragraph (2) . . . ,” which 19 requires that:

20 A mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent shall contact the borrower in person or 21 by telephone in order to assess the borrower's financial situation and explore options 22 for the borrower to avoid foreclosure. During the initial contact, the mortgagee, 23 beneficiary, or authorized agent shall advise the borrower that he or she has the right 24 to request a subsequent meeting and, if requested, the mortgagee, beneficiary, or 25 authorized agent shall schedule the meeting to occur within 14 days. The assessment of the borrower's financial situation and discussion of options may occur during the first contact, or at the subsequent meeting scheduled for that purpose. In either case, the borrower shall be provided the toll-free telephone number made available by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to find a HUD-certified housing counseling agency. Any meeting may occur telephonically.

26 Cal. Civ. Code § 2923.5(2). Furthermore, “a notice of default filed pursuant to Section 2924 shall 27 include a declaration that the mortgagee, beneficiary, or authorized agent has contacted the 28

1 borrower, [or] has tried with due diligence to contact the borrower as required by this section” 2 Cal. Civ. Code § 2923.5(b).

3 In his FAC, Plaintiff alleges that each Defendant failed to comply with its obligations under 4 section 2923.5 by their failure and refusal to: (1) evaluate Plaintiff’s financial condition regarding 5 foreclosure avoidance; (2) advise Plaintiff of his right to meet with Defendants to discuss 6 foreclosure avoidance; and (3) advise Plaintiff of the toll-free number to call for counseling 7 opportunities. (FAC ¶ 36, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff alleges that as a result of Defendants’ failure to 8 comply, he “suffered compensable damages according to proof.” Id. at ¶ 6.

9 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants contend that section 2923.5 only requires that the 10 beneficiary, here CRC, include a declaration in the notice of sale that the borrower was contacted to 11 assess his or her financial situation, and that the NOD contained a declaration to that effect. (Defs.’ 12 Mot. 4:26-5:8, Dkt. #10.) Defendants maintain that the fact that Plaintiff’s conversations with Chase 13 did not result in successful loan modification prior to his filing for bankruptcy does not mean that 14 Defendants failed to comply with the required assessment of Plaintiff’s financial situation as 15 contemplated in section 2923.5. Id. at 5:11-14.

16 In reviewing the allegations in Plaintiff’s FAC, the Court notes that he did contact Chase 17 beginning in January 2009, when he sought a modification of his loan. (FAC ¶ 23, Dkt. #8.)
18 According to Plaintiff, he stopped making loan payments in April 2009 based on advice he received 19 from Chase, and then submitted loan modification paperwork. Id. Plaintiff claims that he had 20 repeated phone conversations with Chase representatives and was told that a representative had been 21 assigned to work on his modification, but that Chase failed to subsequently contact him to discuss 22 options. Id. However, the Court finds that section 2923.5 does not require Chase to do more. See 23 Ortiz v. Accredited Home Lenders, Inc., 639 F. Supp. 2d 1159, 1166 (S.D. Cal. 2009) (finding an 24 implication that the plaintiffs were contacted as required by section 2923.5 and finding dismissal 25 appropriate where the plaintiffs alleged that the defendant did not explore alternatives to foreclosure, 26 but did not allege that the defendants failed to contact them, coupled with the defendant’s 27 declaration of compliance.) Perhaps recognizing that he has no claim, Plaintiff states in his 28

1 opposition that he “concedes that he did have discussions regarding the three separate unsuccessful 2 modifications, but . . . still alleges that Defendants’ [sic] failed to comply with Civil Code section 3 2924.” (Pl.’s Opp’n 6:2-4, Dkt. #13.)

4 Here, the NOD states that “[t]he beneficiary or its designated agent declares that it has 5 contacted the borrower, tried with due diligence to contact the borrower as required by California 6 Civil Code section 2923.5 . . . or is otherwise exempt from the requirements of §2923.5.” (RJN, Ex.
7 3, Dkt. #11.) The Court finds that this notice complies with section 2923.5 and, as Plaintiff does not 8 contest that Defendants complied with section 2923.5, Plaintiff’s claim must fail.

9 b. California Civil Code section 2924

10 Section 2924 provides that in order to institute foreclosure proceedings where a borrower has 11 defaulted on a loan, “[t]he trustee, mortgagee, or beneficiary, or any of their authorized agents shall 12 first file for record, in the office of the recorder of each county wherein the mortgaged or trust 13 property or some part or parcel thereof is situated, a notice of default.” Cal. Civ. Code § 2924(a)(1).
14 The NOD must identify the deed of trust, provide the instrument number under which it was 15 recorded, identify the breach which has occurred, and notify the trustor of the intent to sell. Id.

16 Plaintiff alleges that “there have been numerous improprieties in the assignment, transfer and 17 exercise of the power of sale contained in the [DOT], and thus that CRC “is not properly appointed 18 or authorized by the true beneficiary to foreclose” on the Subject Property. (FAC ¶ 33, Dkt. #8.) In 19 their motion to dismiss, Defendants contend that CRC, as the beneficiary under the DOT, was 20 entitled to execute the NOD. (Defs.’ Mot. 6:9-11, Dkt. #10.)

21 Where a deed of trust contains a power-of-sale clause, the beneficiary may pursue non-22 judicial foreclosure, commonly referred to as a trustee’s sale, under section 2924. Ung v. Koehler, 23 135 Cal. App. 4th 186, 192 (2005). Here, the power-of-sale clause is included on page three of the 24 first DOT, which provides that “Borrower irrevocably grants and conveys to Trustee, in trust, with 25 power of sale, the [P]roperty” (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) Further, the NOD complies with section 26 2924; it identifies CRC as Trustee, provides the instrument number under which the first DOT was 27 recorded, informs Plaintiff of the amount for which he is in arrears, and further notifies him of the 28

1 election to sell under the first DOT. (RJN Ex. 4, Dkt. #11.) Thus, the Court finds that CRC 2 complied with section 2924.

3 Further, the Court finds no merit to Plaintiff's argument that there were improprieties in the 4 assignment of the power-of-sale clause in the first DOT. In support of his claim, Plaintiff argues 5 that there is no record of an assignment of the beneficial interest from WaMu/Chase. (Pl.'s Opp'n 6 6:13-15, Dkt. #13.) However, the first DOT identifies WaMu as lender and beneficiary, and CRC as 7 the Trustee under the instrument. (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) Under the Agreement, Chase acquired 8 certain assets and liabilities of WaMu from the FDIC, which was acting as receiver for WaMu.
9 (RJN, Ex. 5, Dkt. #11.) BofA was assigned beneficial interest in the first DOT by Chase as 10 evidenced by the Assignment of DOT. (RJN, Ex. 3, Dkt. #11.) Thus, CRC, the Trustee under the 11 first DOT, acted as the authorized agent of BofA when it recorded the NOD, in compliance with 12 section 2924(a)(1).

13 Based on this analysis, the Court finds that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim upon which 14 relief can be granted as to his wrongful foreclosure allegation. Further, Plaintiff could not cure the 15 deficiencies of this claim. Accordingly, the Court GRANTS Defendants' motion to dismiss 16 Plaintiff's first cause of action WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

17 2. Plaintiff's Second Cause of Action – Rescission Under 15 U.S.C. § 1635

18 In his FAC, Plaintiff states that he has rescinded his loan on the Subject Property by 19 providing Chase with a written notice of cancellation on December 18, 2009. (FAC ¶ 39, Dkt. #8.) 20 Plaintiff alleges that Defendants have failed to acknowledge Plaintiff's notice of cancellation and 21 have taken no action to remove the security interest on the Subject Property or to return the monies 22 due to him. Id. at ¶¶ 40, 41.

23 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants contend that Plaintiff's claim for rescission is time-24 barred by the applicable statute of limitations. (Defs.' Mot. 7:17-18, Dkt. #10.) The Truth in 25 Lending Act ("TILA"), 15 U.S.C. ¶ 1601, et seq., is intended to protect consumers in credit 26 transactions by requiring "meaningful disclosure of credit terms." 15 U.S.C. § 1601(a). A lender's 27 violation of TILA allows the borrower to seek damages or to rescind a consumer loan secured by the 28

1 borrower's primary dwelling. Copeland v. Lehman Brothers Bank, FSB, 2010 WL 2817173, at *5 2 (S.D. Cal. July 15, 2010). However, a plaintiff's damage claims relating to improper disclosures 3 under TILA are subject to a one-year statute of limitations, 15 U.S.C. § 1640(e), which runs from the 4 time the loan transaction is consummated. King v. State of Cal., 784 F.2d 910, 915 (9th Cir. 1986); 5 see also Meyer v. Ameriquest Mortgage Co., 342 F.3d 899, 902 (9th Cir. 2003) (failure to make the 6 required disclosures under TILA occurs at the time the loan documents were signed). The right to 7 rescission under TILA expires three days after the necessary disclosures are provided to the 8 borrower. 15 U.S.C. § 1635(a).

9 In his opposition, Plaintiff concedes that he did not meet the one-year statute of limitations 10 requirement, but he argues that if a lender fails to disclose to the borrower his right to rescind, the 11 duration of the borrower's right to rescind extends for three years from the date the transaction was 12 consummated. (Pl.'s Opp'n 10:24-11:2, Dkt. #13.)

13 Equitable tolling of TILA claims may be appropriate "in certain circumstances," and can 14 operate to "suspend the limitations period until the borrower discovers or had reasonable 15 opportunity to discover the fraud or non-disclosures that form the basis of the TILA action." King, 16 784 F.2d at 914-15. District courts have discretion to evaluate specific claims of fraudulent 17 concealment and equitable tolling and "to adjust the limitations period accordingly." Id. at 915.
18 Because the applicability of the equitable tolling doctrine often depends on matters outside the 19 pleadings, it "is not generally amenable to resolution on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion." Supermail Cargo, 20 68 F.3d at 1206. However, when a plaintiff fails to allege facts demonstrating that he could not have 21 discovered the alleged violations by exercising reasonable diligence, dismissal is appropriate.
22 Meyer, 342 F.3d at 902-03 (refusing to apply equitable tolling to TILA claim because the plaintiff 23 was in full possession of all loan documents and did not allege any concealment of loan documents 24 or other action that would have prevented discovery of the alleged TILA violations); see also 25 Hubbard v. Fid. Fed. Bank, 91 F.3d 75, 79 (9th Cir. 1996) (finding that plaintiff was not entitled to 26 equitable tolling of her TILA claim because "nothing prevented [plaintiff] from comparing the loan 27 contract, [the lender's] initial disclosures, and TILA's statutory and regulatory requirements").
28

Here, Plaintiff vaguely states that the right to rescind is extended “if a lender fails to disclose to the borrower his right to rescind,” but he provides no support for how this might apply to the Defendants in this case. Instead, Plaintiff states that he submitted his request on December 16, 2009, in which he sought disclosure as to who was involved in the servicing of his loan, but Defendants have failed to provide the requested information. (Pl.’s Opp’n 11:3-6, Dkt. #13.) Even assuming this is true, it is unclear how failure to disclose this information establishes that Defendants failed to disclose Plaintiff’s right to rescind at the time he signed the agreement in 2006. See Meyer, 342 F.3d at 902-03; Hubbard, 91 F.3d at 79. Accordingly, the Court finds that Plaintiff has failed to satisfy the requisite pleading standards. See Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. As Plaintiff has failed to allege sufficient facts to show that equitable tolling may be warranted, and he filed his Complaint over three years after the relevant transaction, the Court hereby DISMISSES Plaintiff’s second cause of action WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

3. Plaintiff’s Third Cause of Action – Reformation

Plaintiff’s third cause of action is for reformation under California Civil Code sections 3399 and 1670.5 against Defendants Chase and Capital Market Funding. (FAC ¶¶ 43-52, Dkt. #8.) Specifically, Plaintiff alleges that the written loan agreement fails to reflect the true intent of parties because he believed, based on representations made to him, that his mortgage rate was fixed at 1%, while the written agreement provides for an adjustable rate mortgage. Plaintiff seeks reformation of the written loan agreement to reflect what he alleges was the true intent of the parties - a thirty-year fixed mortgage at a 1% fixed rate. As discussed above, any claim related to the loan origination is not properly brought against Chase. Accordingly, the Court shall consider this claim solely as it relates Defendant Capital Market Funding (“CMF”).³

In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that reformation is only proper where the contract does not express the true intention of the parties due to fraud, a mutual mistake of the parties, or a mistake of one party of which the other party had knowledge. (Defs.’ Mot. 9:24-26, ³CMF has not appeared in this action and therefore did not join in Defendants’ present motion.

1 Dkt. #10.) Defendants contend that none of those situations are present here, so Plaintiff is not 2 entitled to reformation. Id. at 11:6-12.

3 California Civil Code section 3399 provides that “[w]hen, through fraud or a mutual mistake 4 of the parties, or a mistake of one party, which the other at the time knew or suspected, a written 5 contract does not truly express the intention of the parties, it may be revised” to express the true 6 intention of the parties, so long as the revision does not prejudice rights acquired by third parties in 7 good faith and for value.

8 Here, the Adjustable Rate Rider attached to the first DOT, which Plaintiff executed, clearly 9 explains the terms of repayment. (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) The Rider indicates the interest rate of the 10 Loan and when the monthly mortgage payments would change. Id. Specifically, it expressly states
11 the interest rate and monthly payments, and categorizes such explanation into subheadings: “Change
12 Dates,” “Calculation of Changes,” “Limits of Interest Rate Changes,” “Effective Date of Changes,” 13 and “Notice of Changes.” Id. Further, Plaintiff has a duty to read the terms of a contract before 14 signing. Fields v. Blue Shield of California, 163 Cal. App. 3d 570, 578 (1985) (general duty to read 15 binds signing party to contract unless it contains unusual or unfair language, which the preparing 16 party must explain); see also Employee Painters’ Trust v. J&B Finishes, 77 F.3d 1188, 1192 (9th 17 Cir. 1996) (party who signs a written agreement even without reading it is bound by its terms).
18 Plaintiff has presented no evidence to support the proposition that the terms of the Adjustable Rate 19 Rider were hidden from him, that they were unusual or unfair, or harsh or one-sided, or that there 20 was any impropriety in the formation or execution of the contract. In addition, Plaintiff presumably 21 received mortgage statements in connection with the subject loan and even admits that his loan 22 adjusted annually, yet he only sought a revision over two years later, when he began to experience 23 financial problems. (Pl.’s Opp’n 3:24-4:2, Dkt. #13; FAC ¶ 23, Dkt. #8.) Therefore, the Court finds 24 that Plaintiff’s claim fails.

25 Plaintiff also maintains that “Defendants intended to deceive [him] into believing that the 1% 26 interest rate would be fixed for the life of the loan so they could close the deal and run off with his 27 money.” (Pl.’s Opp’n 11:15-17, Dkt. #13.) Plaintiff states that “because of the negative 28

1 amortization, what started as a $987,000.00 loan would turn into $2,401,502.08 after all principal 2 and interest payments are made,” and argues that “[n]o person in their right mind would ever agree 3 to such a contract.” Id. at 11:20-22. Given this allegation, Plaintiff contends that reformation is 4 proper because the loan agreement was unconscionable at the time it was made. (FAC ¶50, Dkt.
5 #8.) California Civil Code section 1670.5 provides that a court may choose not to enforce a 6 contract or a portion of a contract that it finds unconscionable. Under California law, a contract 7 provision is unenforceable if it is both procedurally and substantively unconscionable. Shroyer v.
8 New Cingular Wireless Services, Inc., 498 F.3d 976, 981-82 (9th Cir. 2007). On California’s sliding 9 scale, “the more substantively oppressive the contract term, the less evidence of procedural 10 unconscionability is required to come to the conclusion that the term is unenforceable, and vice 11 versa.” Id. at 981 (quoting Armendariz v. Foundation Health Psychare Services, Inc., 24 Cal. 4th 12 83, 114 (2000)). A contract will be considered procedurally oppressive when there is oppression or 13 surprise due to unequal bargaining power. Discover Bank v. Superior Court, 36 Cal. 4th 148, 160 14 (2005). A contract or term therein will be considered substantively oppressive where the results are 15 overly harsh or one-sided. Id.

16 In this case, Plaintiff has set forth no facts to demonstrate that Defendants engaged in any act 17 of oppression, surprise, or overly-harsh conduct in connection with the originating of the subject 18 loans. Plaintiff argues that “Defendants intended to deceive [him] into believing that the 1% interest 19 rate would be fixed for the life of the loan so they could close the deal and run off with his money.”
20 (Pl.’s Opp’n 11:15-17, Dkt. #13.) However, as detailed above, the Adjustable Rate Rider attached to 21 the DOT, which Plaintiff executed, clearly explains the terms of repayment. And Plaintiff has a duty
22 to read the terms of a contract before signing. Fields, 163 Cal. App. 3d at 578; see also Employee
23 Painters’ Trust, 77 F.3d at 1192. Accordingly, given the clear terms of the subject loan, the Court 24 finds that Plaintiff has failed to state a claim for reformation under the California Civil Code, and he 25 can not allege any facts to show otherwise. Thus, the Court GRANTS Defendants’ motion to 26 dismiss Plaintiff’s third cause of action WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

27 ///

1 4. Plaintiff's Fourth Cause of Action – RESPA Violations

2 In his fourth cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that the subject loan is a mortgage loan under 3 the provisions of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (“RESPA”), 12 U.S.C. § 2605, et seq., 4 and that Defendants violated RESPA by concealing the true beneficiary of the loan and the holder in 5 due course. (FAC ¶¶ 55-56, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff further alleges that he submitted a qualified written 6 request (“QWR”) to Defendants to determine who is “involved in this loan and their roles,” but 7 Chase has yet to respond. Id. at ¶ 55. Plaintiff contends that Defendants also violated RESPA by 8 receiving money for referrals of settlement service business related to his loan, including giving 9 secret kickbacks to loan brokers. Id. at ¶ 57. Plaintiff further alleges that in return, Capital Market 10 Funding “steered Plaintiff into loans at rates and on terms well above market rates and above those 11 that Plaintiff could have obtained absent such practices.” Id.

12 In their motion, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has not proven pecuniary loss as required by 13 RESPA, nor has he alleged enough facts to prove a RESPA violation. (Defs.’ Mot. 11:18-20, Dkt.
14 #10.) Defendants also argue that RESPA only imposes liability upon loan servicers, and Plaintiff 15 has not alleged that BofA or CRC are servicers of his loan. Id. at 13:4-7.

16 Under RESPA, if a borrower sends a QWR to the servicer of his loan requesting information 17 relating to the servicing of the loan, the servicer has 20 days to acknowledge receipt of the QWR in 18 writing. 12 U.S.C. § 2605(e)(1)(A). The QWR must enable the servicer of the loan to identify the 19 borrower’s name and account and should include a statement by the borrower identifying the 20 reasons why he or she believes the account is in error. Id. at §2605(e)(1)(B). The servicer of the 21 loan then has 60 days to either rectify the error or to communicate in writing to the borrower why 22 the loan is not in error and must provide the borrower with the name and contact information of 23 someone employed by the servicer who can further assist the borrower. Id. at §2605(e)(2). Any 24 servicer failing to comply with the above will be liable to the borrower for his or her actual damages, 25 and for any additional damages in an amount not to exceed $1,000 where the court finds a pattern or 26 practice of noncompliance by the servicer. Id. at §2605(f)(1).

27 Here, Plaintiff alleges that he sent the QWR on December 16, 2009, yet he initially filed this 28

1 action on December 29, 2009 - fourteen days after the request was sent and prior to the allotted time 2 to respond had even run. However, for purposes of Defendants' motion, the Court shall base its 3 analysis on the April 12, 2010 filing date of the FAC, thus permitting the requisite response time
4 under RESPA. Given this date, the Court initially finds that Plaintiff has properly alleged a RESPA 5 violation because he sent a QWR and Defendants failed to respond.

6 However, alleging a breach of RESPA duties alone does not state a claim under RESPA.
7 Plaintiff must, at a minimum, also allege that the breach resulted in actual damages. See 12 U.S.C. § 8 2605(f)(1)(A) ("Whoever fails to comply with this section shall be liable to the borrower . . . [for] 9 any actual damages to the borrower as a result of the failure."); Hutchinson v. Delaware Savings
10 Bank FSB, 410 F. Supp. 2d 374, 383 (D.N.J. 2006) (citations omitted) (a claimant under 12 U.S.C. § 11 2605 must allege a pecuniary loss attributable to the alleged violation). Here, Plaintiff alleged in his 12 FAC only that he has "suffered and continues to suffer compensable damages" as a "result of 13 Defendants' failure to comply with RESPA." (FAC ¶ 58, Dkt. #8.) However, he does not specify 14 his damages. Defendants argue that Plaintiff's claim for violation of RESPA, which is based on the 15 alleged failure to respond to Plaintiff's QWR, is subject to dismissal because he failed to allege that 16 he suffered any actual damages as a result thereof. The Court agrees. In particular, Plaintiff has 17 failed to allege any facts in support of his conclusory allegation that Defendants are liable for 18 "compensable damages." See Ashcroft v. Iqbal, --- U.S. ----, ----, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1949 (2009) 19 ("[T]he tenet that a court must accept as true all of the allegations contained in a complaint is 20 inapplicable to legal conclusions."). Indeed, Plaintiff has failed to allege that he in fact suffered any 21 such damages.

22 Accordingly, to the extent Defendants seek dismissal of Plaintiffs' Fourth Cause of Action, 23 the motion is granted. The Court, however, will afford Plaintiff an opportunity to file a Second 24 Amended Complaint curing the deficiencies noted above. Plaintiff should also be mindful that 12 25 U.S.C. § 2605(e) specifically applies to loan servicers, defined as "the person responsible for 26 servicing of a loan" which means to "receiv[e] any scheduled periodic payments from a borrower 27 pursuant to the terms of any loan" Id. at §§ (i)(2), (3). Any amended complaint must comply 28

1 with the limitations imposed by 12 U.S.C. § 2605(e).

2 5. Plaintiff's Fifth Cause of Action – Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and 3 Fair Dealing

4 In his next cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that the loan agreements, and more specifically 5 the promissory note and deeds of trust, contained an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing 6 which obligated Defendants to “refrain from engaging in any conduct [that] would prevent Plaintiff 7 from fully enjoying the benefits of these contracts.” (FAC ¶ 60, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff further alleges 8 that Defendants breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing due to their failure to 9 comply with Civil Code section 2923.5.

10 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that Plaintiff has failed to demonstrate how any 11 alleged failure to comply with the above section constitutes an interference with his right to receive 12 the benefit from his loan transaction. (Defs.’ Mot. 14:9-11, Dkt. #10.) In response to Plaintiff’s 13 allegation, Defendants contend that Plaintiff has failed to meet his obligations under the loan 14 contract as required, namely, to make timely monthly payments; thus his claim must fail. Id. at 15 14:27-28.

16 In his opposition, Plaintiff apparently abandons the allegation in his Complaint that 17 Defendants breach is the result of their failure to comply with section 2923.5. Instead, Plaintiff now 18 contends that Defendants breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing by initiating 19 foreclosure proceedings without complying with California Civil Code section 2924. (Pl.’s Opp’n 20 8:1-4, Dkt. #13.) Plaintiff also argues that the loan terms themselves, including the interest rate, 21 amount financed, and finance charges equate to a breach of the implied covenant. Id. at 8:5-6.
22 Plaintiff further argues that Defendants breached the implied covenant “as to the initial loan and 23 with respect to his efforts at modification and the foreclosure process.” Id. at 8:14-16.

24 Under California law, every contract “imposes upon each party a duty of good faith and fair 25 dealing in its performance and its enforcement.” McClain v. Octagon Plaza, LLC, 159 Cal. App. 4th 26 784, 796 (2008) (quoting Carma Developers, Inc. v. Marathon Dev. Cal., Inc., 2 Cal.4th 342, 371-72 27 (1992)). The covenant “is based on general contract law and the long-standing rule that neither 28

1 party will do anything which will injure the right of the other to receive the benefits of the 2 agreement.” Waller v. Truck Ins. Exchange, Inc., 11 Cal.4th 1, 36 (1995). In California, the factual 3 elements necessary to establish a breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing are: (1) the 4 parties entered into a contract; (2) the plaintiff fulfilled his obligations under the contract; (3) any 5 conditions precedent to the defendant’s performance occurred; (4) the defendant unfairly interfered 6 with the plaintiff’s rights to receive the benefits of the contract; and (5) the plaintiff was harmed by 7 the defendant’s conduct. Judicial Council of California Civil Jury Instruction 325.

8 Here, as discussed above, Plaintiff failed to set forth any facts to support the contention that 9 Defendants violated sections 2923.5 and 2924. Further, the implied covenant of good faith and fair 10 dealing “cannot impose substantive duties or limits on the contracting parties beyond those 11 incorporated in the specific terms of their agreement.” Agosta v. Astor, 120 Cal. App. 4th 596, 607 12 (2004) (internal citation omitted). “Absent [a] contractual right . . . the implied covenant has 13 nothing upon which to act as a supplement, and should not be endowed with an existence 14 independent of its contractual underpinnings.” Waller, 11 Cal.4th at 36 (internal citations omitted).
15 As Plaintiff failed to plead that a contract to modify the loan agreement existed, or that the parties 16 had a specific agreement under either of these sections, Plaintiff’s claim as it relates to sections 17 2923.5 and 2924 must fail.

18 In addition, Plaintiff’s claim that a breach occurred “when executing [his] initial loan in July 19 of 2006” likewise fails. First, as discussed above, when Chase acquired certain assets and liabilities 20 of WaMu from the FDIC, Section 2.5 of the Agreement provided that Plaintiff could not maintain 21 any claims against Chase arising out of the origination of the loans. Second, even if Plaintiff could 22 establish a contractual relationship, “no cause of action for the tortious breach of the implied 23 covenant of good faith and fair dealing can arise unless the parties are in a ‘special relationship’ with 24 ‘fiduciary characteristics.’” Pension Trust Fund v. Federal Ins. Co., 307 F.3d 944, 955 (9th Cir.
25 2002). California courts do not invoke a special relationship between a lender and borrower absent 26 special circumstances with such “fiduciary characteristics.” Oaks Mgmt. Corp. v. Superior Court, 27 145 Cal. App. 4th 453, 466 (2006). Here, Plaintiff’s Complaint does not allege facts establishing a 28

1 “special relationship” between Plaintiff and Defendants that could justify extending tort liability.
2 Third, Plaintiff has failed to allege the second element of his claim - that he fulfilled his obligations 3 under the contract. As such, the Court finds that Plaintiff has not stated a claim for breach of the 4 implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. The Court thus GRANTS Defendants’ motion to 5 dismiss Plaintiff’s fifth cause of action WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

6 6. Plaintiff’s Sixth Cause of Action – Breach of Fiduciary Duty

7 Plaintiff’s sixth cause of action is for breach of fiduciary duty against Chase and CMF. In 8 his FAC, Plaintiff alleges that CMF, his mortgage broker and financial advisor, owed him fiduciary 9 duties regarding the subject loan and that Chase knew about that fiduciary relationship. (FAC ¶ 64, 10 Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff further alleges that Chase owed a duty not to aid and abet CMF’s breach of 11 fiduciary duty, which Plaintiff alleges occurred when CMF obtained a loan for Plaintiff with 12 unfavorable terms which served CMF, and by not disclosing that it could have obtained Plaintiff 13 more favorable terms. Id. at ¶¶ 66-67. Plaintiff alleges that Chase was at all times aware of and 14 aided and abetted in CMF’s breach. Id. at ¶ 67.

15 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that there was no fiduciary duty between 16 Plaintiff and Chase, and thus that Plaintiff’s cause of action fails. (Defs.’ Mot. 15:7-21, Dkt. #10.)

17 “In order to plead a cause of action for breach of fiduciary duty, there must be shown the 18 existence of a fiduciary relationship, its breach, and damage proximately caused by that breach. The 19 absence of any one of these elements is fatal to the cause of action.” Pierce v. Lyman, 1 Cal. App.
20 4th 1093, 1101 (1991). “[A]s a general rule, a financial institution owes no duty of care to a 21 borrower when the institution’s involvement in the loan transaction does not exceed the scope of its 22 conventional role as a mere lender of money.” Nymark v. Heart Fed. Savings & Loan Assn., 231 23 Cal. App. 3d 1089, 1096 (1991).

24 Here, because Chase was not a party to the loan agreement, Plaintiff cannot show that it 25 “aided and abetted” in CMF’s alleged breach of fiduciary duty. Even if Chase were considered a 26 party to the original loan agreement, Plaintiff has not alleged that any of its actions exceeded the 27 scope of its conventional role as a lender. Accordingly, Plaintiff’s breach of fiduciary duty cause of 28

1 action must fail as to Chase. The Court thus GRANTS Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiff's 2 sixth cause of action as to Chase WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

3 As to CMF, it has not appeared in this action and has therefore not joined in Defendants' 4 motion to dismiss. Thus, accepting Plaintiff's allegations as true, his sixth cause of action for breach 5 of fiduciary duty against CMF remains. However, there is no indication that CMF has been properly 6 served. Accordingly, Plaintiff must ensure that any amended complaint that includes CMF as a 7 defendant is properly served on it.

8 7. Plaintiff's Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Causes of Action for Fraud-Related Damages

9 Plaintiff next brings three fraud-related causes of action. In his seventh cause of action for 10 fraudulent misrepresentation, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants knowingly made false representations 11 that the terms of the loan procured for him were the best available, that it was a fixed-rate loan, fully 12 amortized, that the payment would not increase, and that he could afford the loan. (FAC ¶ 70-72, 13 Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff alleges that these representations were material in his decision to accept the loan 14 terms, and that Defendants knew he would rely on their misrepresentations. Id. at ¶ 71, 73-75.
15 Plaintiff maintains that Defendants committed the above acts with malice and oppression. Id. at ¶ 16 76.

17 In his eighth cause of action for fraudulent concealment, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants 18 concealed material facts (as stated in his seventh cause of action above) to induce him to 19 consummate the loan, and that he suffered damages as a result of their fraudulent concealment. Id.
20 at ¶¶ 77-81.

21 In his ninth cause of action for civil conspiracy to defraud, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants 22 committed their acts of fraud pursuant to an agreement by and between them to "defraud [him] into 23 entering the subject loan, to pay and make secret profits from the origination, resale and servicing of 24 the subject loan, and to induce [him] to forego seeking redress for the wrongs committed until his 25 property was foreclosed upon and forever lost." Id. at ¶ 85.

26 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants contend that Plaintiff cannot state any cause of action 27 for fraud because his claims are time-barred. (Defs.' Mot. 15:25-16:9, Dkt. #10.) Alternatively, 28

1 Defendants argue that Plaintiff fails to allege fraud with particularity, specifically that he fails to 2 plead with particularity the representations made, how such representations were false, and under 3 whose authority such representations were made by Chase. Id. at 17:12-19.

4 In response, Plaintiff maintains that his fraud claims are not time-barred because he became 5 aware of the fraud within 15 days of filing his initial complaint. (Pl.'s Opp'n 8:22-26, Dkt. #13.)
6 Additionally, he claims this his fraud allegations are pled with particularity. Specifically, he argues 7 that Defendants represented that he could refinance his property with a 1% interest rate, they were 8 aware their statements were false, he relied on these statements, and has been damaged because he 9 has been forced to pay a rate that is over 5% greater than what was represented to him at the time of 10 the loan origination. Id. at 9:6-21.

11 Plaintiff's seventh, eighth, and ninth causes of action are all species of fraud. Lane v. Vitek 12 Real Estate Industries Group, --- F. Supp. 2d ----, 2010 WL 1956707, at *8 (E.D. Cal. May 13, 13 2010). In California, the essential elements of a claim for fraud are "(a) a misrepresentation (false 14 representation, concealment, or nondisclosure); (b) knowledge of falsity (or 'scienter'); (c) intent to 15 defraud, i.e., to induce reliance; (d) justifiable reliance; and (e) resulting damage." In re Estate of 16 Young, 160 Cal. App. 4th 62, 79 (2008) (citations omitted). The statute of limitations for an action 17 grounded in fraud is three years. Cal. Civ. Code § 338(d).

18 Under the heightened pleading requirements for claims of fraud under Rule 9(b), "a party 19 must state with particularity the circumstances constituting the fraud." Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). A 20 plaintiff must include the "who, what, when, where, and how" of the fraud. Vess v. Ciba-Geigy
21 Corp. USA, 317 F.3d 1097, 1106 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation omitted); Decker v. Glenfed, Inc., 42 F.3d 22 1541, 1548 (9th Cir. 1994). Additionally, "[w]here multiple defendants are asked to respond to 23 allegations of fraud, the complaint must inform each defendant of his alleged participation in the 24 fraud." Ricon v. Reconstruct Co., No. 09-937 IEG, 2009 WL 2407396, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Aug.4, 25 2009) (quoting DiVittorio v. Equidyne Extractive Indus., 822 F.2d 1242, 1247 (2d Cir.1987)).

26 As it finds the issue dispositive, the Court shall first address whether Plaintiff's fraud claims 27 are time barred. "[A]s a general rule the limitations period starts at the consummation of the 28

1 transaction.” King, 784 F.2d at 915. Here, Plaintiff entered into the loan agreements in July of 2 2006, yet he filed his initial complaint in December of 2009. As more than three years elapsed 3 before Plaintiff brought this action, the Court initially finds that his claims are time barred.

4 Plaintiff responds that the statute of limitations should be tolled on equitable grounds
5 because he did not discover the fraud until December of 2009. (Pl.’s Opp’n 8:22-26, Dkt. #13.)
6 “Equitable tolling may be applied if, despite all due diligence, a plaintiff is unable to obtain vital 7 information bearing on the existence of his claim.” Santa Maria v. Pacific Bell, 202 F.3d 1170, 8 1178 (9th Cir. 2000). Equitable tolling “focuses on excusable delay by the Plaintiff.” Id.

9 Here, the Court finds that the alleged facts of this case are not so extraordinary as to warrant 10 equitable tolling. Plaintiff’s transaction was consummated in July of 2006. (RJN Ex. 1-3, Dkt. #11.)
11 As discussed above, the Adjustable Rate Rider attached to the first DOT, which Plaintiff executed, 12 clearly explains the terms of repayment. (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) The Rider indicates the interest 13 rate of the Loan and when the monthly mortgage payments would change. Id. Specifically, it 14 expressly states the interest rate and monthly payments, and categorizes such explanation into 15 subheadings “Change Dates,” “Calculation of Changes,” “Limits of Interest Rate Changes,” 16 “Effective Date of Changes,” and “Notice of Changes.” Id. Further, Plaintiff has a duty to read the 17 terms of a contract before signing. Fields, 163 Cal. App. 3d at 578 (general duty to read binds 18 signing party to contract unless it contains unusual or unfair language, which the preparing party 19 must explain); see also Employee Painters’ Trust, 77 F.3d at 1192 (party who signs a written 20 agreement even without reading it is bound by its terms). Plaintiff has presented no evidence to 21 support the proposition that the terms of the Adjustable Rate Rider were hidden from him, that they 22 were unusual or unfair, or harsh or one-sided, or that there was any impropriety in the formation or 23 execution of the contract. In addition, Plaintiff presumably received mortgage statements in 24 connection with the subject loan and even admits that his loan adjusted annually, and he only sought 25 a revision when he began to experience financial problems. (Pl.’s Opp’n 3:24-4:8, Dkt. #13; FAC ¶ 26 23, Dkt. #8.)

27 Further, Plaintiff has set forth no facts to demonstrate that Defendants engaged in any act of 28

1 oppression, surprise, or overly-harsh conduct in connection with the originating of the subject loans.
 2 Plaintiff argues that “Defendants intended to deceive [him] into believing that the 1% interest rate 3 would be fixed for the life of the loan so they could close the deal and run off with his money.”
 4 (Pl.’s Opp’n 11:15-17, Dkt. #13.) However, as detailed above, the Adjustable Rate Rider attached to 5 the DOT, which Plaintiff executed, clearly explains the terms of repayment. And Plaintiff has a duty
 6 to read the terms of a contract before signing. Fields, 163 Cal. App. 3d at 578; see also Employee
 7 Painters’ Trust, 77 F.3d at 1192.

8 Moreover, the Court notes that the purpose of the loans was to refinance the Subject 9 Property, which indicates that this is not the first loan that Plaintiff had taken out. Given his prior 10 experience with loan documents of this type, as well as the written terms of the adjustable rate rider 11 that he executed, the Court finds that, if Defendants had attempted to defraud him (and the Court is 12 making no such finding), Plaintiff should have been able to discover it at the time he executed the 13 loan agreements. Instead, his Complaint was not filed until nearly three-and-a-half years later.
 14 Plaintiff has had an opportunity to explain why equitable tolling applies, and the Court is not 15 persuaded. Hence, the Court DISMISSES his seventh, eighth, and ninth causes of action 16 WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

17 8. Plaintiff’s Tenth Cause of Action for Violation of California Business & Professions
 18 Code Section 17200

19 In his next cause of action, Plaintiff alleges that Defendants violated California Business & 20 Professions Code section 17200 by (1) misrepresenting and concealing the terms of his loans; (2) 21 failing to comply with California Civil Code sections 2923.5 and 2924; and (3) conspiracy to 22 defraud him to enter into and make payments under the subject loans. (FAC ¶¶ 88-92, Dkt. #8.)

23 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that Plaintiff lacks standing to assert a claim 24 under section 17200. Specifically, Defendants argue that standing to bring a section 17200 claim is 25 limited to specified public officials and any person who has suffered injury in fact and has lost 26 money or property as a result of unfair competition. (Defs.’ Mot. at 20:6-12, Dkt. #10.) Defendants 27 maintain that Plaintiff fails to allege that he lost money or property as a result of any purported 28

1 violation. Id. at 20:19-20.

2 California Business & Professions Code section 17200 prohibits unfair competition 3 including any “unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or 4 misleading advertising.” Because the statute is written in the disjunctive, it prohibits three separate 5 types of unfair competition: (1) unlawful acts or practices, (2) unfair acts or practices, and (3) 6 fraudulent acts or practices. Cel-Tech Commc'ns, Inc. v. L.A. Cellular Tel. Co., 20 Cal.4th 163, 180 7 (1999). This statute has a “broad scope that allows for ‘violations of other laws to be treated as 8 unfair competition that is independently actionable’ while also ‘sweep[ing] within its scope acts and 9 practices not specifically proscribed by any other law.’” Hauk v. JPMorgan Chase Bank USA, 552 10 F.3d 1114, 1122 (9th Cir. 2009) (quoting Kasky v. Nike, Inc., 27 Cal.4th 939, 949 (2002)). Thus, 11 violation of almost any federal, state or local law may serve as the basis for a section 17200 claim.
12 Saunders v. Superior Court, 27 Cal. App. 4th 832, 838-39 (1994). In addition, a business practice 13 may be “unfair or fraudulent in violation of [section 17200] even if the practice does not violate any 14 law.” Olszewski v. Scripps Health, 30 Cal.4th 798, 827 (2003).

15 The definition of “unfair” acts or practices in consumer actions is uncertain. There are two 16 opposing lines of California appellate court opinions. See, e.g., Morgan v. Harmonix Music Sys., 17 Inc., 2009 WL 2031765, at *4 (N.D. Cal. July 7, 2009) (noting the split in authority); Bardin v.
18 DaimlerChrysler Corp., 136 Cal. App. 4th 1255, 1260 (2006) (same). “One line defines ‘unfair’ as 19 prohibiting conduct that is immoral, unethical, oppressive, unscrupulous or substantially injurious to 20 consumers and requires the court to weigh the utility of the defendant's conduct against the gravity 21 of the harm to the alleged victim.” Bardin, 136 Cal. App. 4th at 1260 (internal citation omitted).
22 “The other line of cases holds that the public policy which is a predicate to a consumer unfair 23 competition action under the ‘unfair’ prong of the UCL must be tethered to specific constitutional, 24 statutory, or regulatory provisions.” Id. at 1260-61 (internal citation omitted).

25 The term “fraudulent” as used in section 17200 “does not refer to the common law tort of 26 fraud” but only requires a showing that members of the public “are likely to be deceived.” Puentes 27 v. Wells Fargo Home Mortg., Inc., 160 Cal. App. 4th 638, 645 (2008) (citing Saunders v. Superior 28

1 Court, 27 Cal. App. 4th 832, 839 (1994); Byars v. SCME Mortgage Bankers, Inc., 09 Cal. App. 4th 2 1134, 1147 (2003)). “Unless the challenged conduct ‘targets a particular disadvantaged or 3 vulnerable group, it is judged by the effect it would have on a reasonable consumer.’” Id. (quoting 4 Aron v. U-Haul Co. of Cal., 143 Cal. App. 4th 796, 806 (2006)).

5 As an initial matter, the Court rejects Defendants’ argument that Plaintiff lacks standing to 6 bring suit under section 17200. A private person has standing to assert an unfair competition claim 7 only if he or she “has suffered injury in fact” and “has lost money or property as a result of the 8 unfair competition.” Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code § 17204. Accepting Plaintiff’s allegations here as true, 9 the Court finds that me meets this standard. See, e.g., Sullivan v. Wash. Mut. Bank, FA, No.
10 C-09-2161 EMC, 2009 WL 3458300, at *4-5 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 23, 2009) (concluding that the 11 initiation of foreclosure proceedings put the plaintiff’s interest in her property sufficiently in 12 jeopardy to allege an injury under section 17200); Rabb v. BNC Mortgage, Inc., CV 09-4790 AHM 13 (RZx), 2009 WL 3045812, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 21, 2009) (same).

14 Nonetheless, the Court agrees that Plaintiff’s claim must fail. Plaintiff’s first and third 15 allegations are that Defendants misrepresented and concealed the terms of his loans, and that they 16 conspired to defraud him to enter into and make payments under the loans. However, as detailed 17 above, the Adjustable Rate Rider attached to the DOT, which Plaintiff executed, clearly explains the 18 terms of the loan and repayment. (RJN, Ex. 1, Dkt. #11.) The Rider indicates the interest rate of the 19 Loan and when the monthly mortgage payments would change. Id. Specifically, it expressly states
20 the interest rate and monthly payments, and categorizes such explanation into subheadings “Change
21 Dates,” “Calculation of Changes,” “Limits of Interest Rate Changes,” “Effective Date of Changes,” 22 and “Notice of Changes.” Id. Plaintiff has presented no evidence to support the proposition that the 23 terms of the Adjustable Rate Rider were hidden from him, that they were unusual or unfair, or harsh 24 or one-sided, or that there was any impropriety in the formation or execution of the contract. In 25 addition, Plaintiff presumably received mortgage statements in connection with the subject loan and 26 even admits that his loan adjusted annually. (Pl.’s Opp’n 3:24-4:2, Dkt. #13.) Further, Plaintiff has 27 a duty to read the terms of a contract before signing. Fields, 163 Cal. App. 3d at 578 (general duty 28

1 to read binds signing party to contract unless it contains unusual or unfair language, which the 2 preparing party must explain); see also Employee Painters' Trust, 77 F.3d at 1192 (party who signs 3 a written agreement even without reading it is bound by its terms). Accordingly, these allegation are 4 without merit and must be dismissed

5 Plaintiff's second allegation is that Defendants failed to comply with California Civil Code 6 sections 2923.5 and 2924. Once again, as discussed above, Plaintiff's claims under sections 2923.5
7 and 2924 are without merit. Accordingly, this allegation must also be dismissed. Based on this 8 analysis, the Court hereby GRANTS Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiff's tenth cause of action 9 WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

10 9. Plaintiff's Eleventh Cause of Action for Quiet Title to Real Property

11 Plaintiff's eleventh cause of action is for quiet title under California Code of Civil Procedure 12 section 761.020. Plaintiff alleges that he is the owner of the Subject Property and that "Defendants 13 are seeking to hold themselves out as the fee simple owners of the subject property, when in fact 14 they do not have possession and are not holders in due course of the Promissory Note or Deed of 15 Trust." (FAC ¶ 97, Dkt. #8.) Plaintiff seeks a judicial declaration that the title to the Subject 16 Property is vested in him alone and that Defendants be declared to have no estate, right, title, or 17 interest in it. Id. at ¶ 98.

18 In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that Plaintiff fails to allege their adverse interest 19 because they have no recorded interest in the Subject Property. (Defs.' Mot. 22:9-11, Dkt. #10.) In 20 addition, Defendants argue that Plaintiff fails to allege the ground upon which this claim is based.
21 Specifically, Defendants maintain that Plaintiff sets forth no facts to demonstrate that the DOT is 22 cancellable, and that he fails to tender the amount due under the DOT in order to seek quiet title.

23 The purpose of a quiet title action is "to finally settle and determine, as between the parties, 24 all conflicting claims to the property in controversy, and to decree to each such interest or estate 25 therein as he may be entitled to." Newman v. Cornelius, 3 Cal. App. 3d 279, 284 (1970) (quoting 26 Peterson v. Gibbs, 147 Cal. 1, 5 (1905)). Quiet title claims are governed by section 761.020 of the 27 California Code of Civil Procedure, which provides that a complaint to quiet title "shall be verified," 28

1 and requires it to include all of the following:

2 (a) A description of the property that is the subject of the action. In the case of 3 tangible personal property, the description shall include its usual location. In the case 4 of real property, the description shall include both its legal description and its street address or common designation, if any.

5 (b) The title of the plaintiff as to which a determination under this chapter is sought 6 and the basis of the title. If the title is based upon adverse possession, the complaint shall allege the specific facts constituting the adverse possession.

7 (c) The adverse claims to the title of the plaintiff against which a determination is sought.

8 (d) The date as of which the determination is sought. If the determination is sought as 9 of a date other than the date the complaint is filed, the complaint shall include a statement of the reasons why a determination as of that date is sought.

10 (e) A prayer for the determination of the title of the plaintiff against the adverse 11 claims.

12 Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 761.020.

13 Here, Plaintiff cannot establish that he is entitled to quiet title. A basic requirement of an 14 action to quiet title is an allegation that plaintiffs “are the rightful owners of the property, i.e., that 15 they have satisfied their obligations under the deed of trust.” Kelley v. Mortgage Elec. Registration 16 Sys., 642 F. Supp. 2d 1048, 1057 (N.D. Cal. 2009). Thus, it is dispositive as to this claim that, under 17 California law, a borrower may not assert “quiet title” against a mortgagee without first paying the 18 outstanding debt on the property. Miller v. Provost, 26 Cal. App. 4th 1703, 1707 (1994) (“a 19 mortgagor of real property cannot, without paying his debt, quiet his title against the mortgagee”) 20 (citation omitted); Rivera v. BAC Home Loans Servicing, L.P., 2010 WL 2757041, at *8 (N.D. Cal.
21 July 9, 2010). As Plaintiff concedes that he has not paid the debt secured by the mortgage, he 22 cannot sustain a quiet title action against Defendants. Accordingly, Plaintiff’s eleventh cause of 23 action for quiet title is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

24 10. Plaintiff’s Twelfth Cause of Action for Declaratory and Injunctive Relief

25 Plaintiff’s final cause of action is for declaratory and injunctive relief. Specifically, Plaintiff 26 contends that Defendants are not authorized to proceed with foreclosure on the Subject Property 27 because they are not the holders in due course of the promissory note at issue. (FAC ¶ 100, Dkt.

#8.) Plaintiff requests that the Court grant a preliminary injunction and temporary restraining order as to any action to set the Subject Property for a non-judicial sale pursuant to foreclosure proceedings, and grant a permanent injunction precluding Defendants from engaging in any wrongful conduct in the future. Id. at ¶ 104.

In their motion to dismiss, Defendants argue that Plaintiff cannot establish that he is entitled to declaratory and injunctive relief. (Defs.' Mot. 23:20-25:13, Dkt. #10.) However, without reaching the merits of Defendants' argument, the Court notes that declaratory and injunctive relief are not causes of action; rather, they are remedies. McDowell v. Watson, 59 Cal. App. 4th 1155, 1159, 69 Cal. Rptr. 2d 692 (1997) ("Injunctive relief is a remedy and not, in itself a cause of action") (internal quotation marks omitted); see also Kennedy Funding, Inc. v. Chapman, 2010 WL 2528729, at *11 (N.D. Cal. June 18, 2010). Accordingly, Plaintiff's twelfth cause of action is more properly considered a remedy and is therefore DISMISSED. However, a dismissal of the twelfth claim will not, in fact, preclude Plaintiff's ability to recover on these theories if he is able to show the existence of the elements necessary to plead his remaining claims that would entitle him to such relief. Moreover, dismissal of this claim at the pleading stage will serve the felicitous purpose of narrowing the action, by eliminating superfluous or unnecessary claims and concentrating the parties' (and the Court's) energies on the essence of the underlying dispute. For this reason, Defendants' motion to dismiss Plaintiff's twelfth cause of action will be granted with leave to amend to the extent that such remedies can be included where appropriate in the prayer for relief section of any second amended complaint.

VI. CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the Court hereby ORDERS as follows:

- 1) Plaintiff's first cause of action for Wrongful Foreclosure is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 2) Plaintiff's second cause of action for Rescission under 15 U.S.C. § 1635 is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 3) Plaintiff's third cause of action for Reformation under California Civil Code sections 3399 and 1670.5 is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.

- 4) Plaintiff's fourth cause of action for Violation of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act, 12 U.S.C. § 2605, et seq., is DISMISSED WITH LEAVE TO AMEND, but only as to loan servicers as defined in 12 U.S.C. § 2605(e).
- 5) Plaintiff's fifth cause of action for Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 6) Plaintiff's sixth cause of action for Breach of Fiduciary Duty is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND as to the moving Defendants. However, as Defendant Capital Market Funding, Inc. has not appeared in this matter and did not join in Defendants' motion, Plaintiff's claim against it remains pending and may be included in any second amended complaint. As there is no indication that CMF has been properly served, Plaintiff must ensure that any amended complaint that includes CMF as a defendant is properly served on it.
- 7) Plaintiff's seventh cause of action for Fraudulent Misrepresentation is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 8) Plaintiff's eighth cause of action for Fraudulent Concealment is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 9) Plaintiff's ninth cause of action for Civil Conspiracy to Defraud is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 10) Plaintiff's tenth cause of action for Violation of California Business & Professions Code section 17200 is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 11) Plaintiff's eleventh cause of action for Quiet Title is DISMISSED WITHOUT LEAVE TO AMEND.
- 12) Plaintiff's twelfth cause of action of Declaratory and Injunctive Relief is DISMISSED, but with leave to amend to the extent that such remedies can be included where appropriate in the prayer for relief section of any second amended complaint.

1 Plaintiff shall serve any file any amended complaint within 30 days of this Order. Failure to 2 do so will result in dismissal of his case in its entirety.

3 IT IS SO ORDERED.
